

Federal Aviation Administration

---

Memorandum

Date: NOV 17 2014

To: Director, Aviation Logistics Organization, ALO-1

From: Christopher S. Metts, Acting Deputy Assistant Administrator
for Acquisition and Business, ACQ-1

Subject: Eminent Domain Delegation of Authority

---

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator on August 14, 2014, as the FAA Acquisition Executive (FAE), I hereby designate to the position listed above unlimited authority to acquire real property by eminent domain (also known as condemnation). Set forth below are the circumstances pursuant to which the majority of eminent domain actions are initiated:

- Price disagreement;
- Title defects;
- Missing or unknown landowner;
- Landowner violates terms of contract for sale;
- Landowner's request or necessity; or
- Landowner unwilling to sell at any price or unwilling to lease the property to the FAA and FAA officials have demonstrated a long-term continuing need for the real property.

To the extent that a proposed eminent domain proceeding does not come within the scope of any of the circumstances described in this delegation, you may institute an action provided you have a rational basis for doing so, supported by substantial evidence.

In addition, certain legal and administrative requirements, including, but not limited to, the following, must be met when entering into eminent domain proceedings:

- The Department of Justice rules and title requirements on condemnation; and
- FAA real property policy and guidance including FAA procedural guide, "Acquisition of Real Property by Eminent Domain".

Eminent domain is an essential attribute of government power. Therefore, legal participation is required on all condemnations.

Additionally, given the degree of difficulty, the length of time, and the considerable expense involved in litigating a condemnation action, FAA generally seeks to avoid acquisition of non-permanent interests such as short-term leaseholds by condemnation, although such short-term acquisitions are not prohibited.

This delegation rescinds and replaces all previously issued delegations for authority to acquire real property by eminent domain.

Federal Aviation Administration

Memorandum

Date:

To: Director Aviation Logistics Organization, ALO-1

From: Christopher S. Metts, Acting Deputy Assistant Administrator
for Acquisition and Business, ACQ-1

Subject: Eminent Domain Delegation of Authority

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator on August 14, 2014, as the FAA Acquisition Executive (FAE), I hereby designate to the position listed above unlimited authority to acquire real property by eminent domain (also known as condemnation). Set forth below are the circumstances pursuant to which the majority of eminent domain actions are initiated:

- Price disagreement;
- Title defects;
- Missing or unknown landowner;
- Landowner violates terms of contract for sale;
- Landowner's request or necessity; or
- Landowner unwilling to sell at any price or unwilling to lease the property to the FAA and FAA officials have demonstrated a long-term continuing need for the real property.

To the extent that a proposed eminent domain proceeding does not come within the scope of any of the circumstances described in this delegation, you may institute an action provided you have a rational basis for doing so, supported by substantial evidence.

In addition, certain legal and administrative requirements, including, but not limited to, the following, must be met when entering into eminent domain proceedings:

- The Department of Justice rules and title requirements on condemnation; and
- FAA real property policy and guidance including FAA procedural guide, "Acquisition of Real Property by Eminent Domain".

CONCURRENCES
ROUTING SYMBOL
AAP-100

INITIALS/SIG
EN

DATE
11/10/14

ROUTING SYMBOL
AAP-1

INITIALS/SIG
JAE

DATE
11/12/14

ROUTING SYMBOL
AGC-500

INITIALS/SIG
JAE

DATE
11/13/14

ROUTING SYMBOL
ACQ-1

INITIALS/SIG
JAE

DATE
11/17/14

ROUTING SYMBOL

INITIALS/SIG

DATE

ROUTING SYMBOL

INITIALS/SIG

DATE

ROUTING SYMBOL

INITIALS/SIG

DATE

ROUTING SYMBOL

INITIALS/SIG

DATE

Eminent domain is an essential attribute of government power. Therefore, legal participation is required on all condemnations.

Additionally, given the degree of difficulty, the length of time, and the considerable expense involved in litigating a condemnation action, FAA generally seeks to avoid acquisition of non-permanent interests such as short-term leaseholds by condemnation, although such short-term acquisitions are not prohibited.

This delegation rescinds and replaces all previously issued delegations for authority to acquire real property by eminent domain.